How to Install the Program
Windows 95
   1. Download OpenGL Library and install it in your system.
   2. Download HTML Help System*1 File and install it in your system.
   3. Download BASP1.4 File and unzip the files into a directory.
   4. Run Setup.exe to install the BASP1.4
   5. Copy the License File into the directory where BASP1.4 is installed.
Windows 95 OSR2
   1. Download HTML Help System File*1 and install it in your system.
   2. Download BASP1.4 File and unzip the files into a directory.
   3. Run Setup.exe to install the BASP1.4.
   4. Copy the License File into the directory where BASP1.4 is installed.
Windows 98 or 2000
   1. Download BASP1.4 File and unzip the files into a directory.
   2. Run Setup.exe to install the BASP1.4.
   3. Copy the License File into the directory where BASP1.4 is installed.
Windows NT4.0 with Service Pack 3
   1. Download HTML Help System File*1 and install it in your system. You need to have administrator's privilege in order to install HTML Help System File
   2. Download BASP1.4 File and unzip the files into a directory.
   3. Run Setup.exe to install the BASP1.4.
   4. Copy the License File into the directory where BASP1.4 is installed.
Windows NT5.0
   1. Download BASP1.4 File and unzip the files into a directory.
   2. Run Setup.exe to install the BASP1.4.
   3. Copy the License File into the directory where BASP1.4 is installed.
Note *1. HTML Help System File is required to view the BASP Help file contents in Windows 95 and Windows NT4.0. It also requires Microsoft Internet Explorer 4.01 or higher installed in your system. If you just want to read the Help contents on the web, there is no need to install the HTML Help System since the contents on the web are same as the BASP Help file contents.

How to Uninstall the Program
1. Remove the program by running Add/Remove Programs in Control Panel of your system.
2. Remove the directory where the BASP files are stored.